Overdose Prevention Week and Recovery Month – A Time to Remember That Treatment Works

During Overdose Prevention Week, New Beginnings Lake Charles would like to remind everyone that we are here for the community. Overdose deaths, related injuries and sickness from alcoholism and other drug dependency do not need to occur.

Treatment works! New Beginnings Lake Charles can help with a full continuum of services from medical detoxification to residential treatment to intensive outpatient services. We are here 24/7 to serve the southwestern Louisiana area. Other treatment programs in the area can help as well. We urge our citizens to contact any treatment program for help in the area.

National Recovery Month in September Serves as a Reminder of our Commitment to providing the evidence-based treatment that leads to long-term recovery.

Coinciding with Overdose Awareness Week and the start of National Recovery Month, New Beginnings Lake Charles wants the community to know that treatment does work given an adequate dose of treatment and we are prepared to provide the treatment needed to move our citizens into long-term recovery and to connect Louisianans who misuse alcohol and other drugs to recovery and treatment supports. Simply give us a call for an appointment 877-855-9773.

Additionally, for those seeking help for a co-occurring disorder (COD) that encompass substance use disorders (SUDs) and mental health conditions we are prepared to provide needed treatment as well.

According to Shannon Ardoin, Director of New Beginnings Lake Charles, “National Recovery Month is a time to reaffirm our commitment to helping all people facing the challenges of overcoming substance use problems and connect to effective, evidence-based treatments. We want Louisianans with addiction to know that recovery is achievable and that with treatment and related supports, they can have fulfilling lives.”
